The international conference is being organized with the purpose of discussing new strategies in order to further human rights, social development and sustainability. The question is if human rights can provide us with new pathways to the understanding of the societal transformation process and to the steering of the development into a sustainable direction. The conference will be organizing three workshops: 1) Regional disparity, inequality and migration, 2) New approaches in education for sustainable development, 3) Eco-social economy and local development. Through these workshops and panel discussions the conference wants to explore the ways that social and moral values can provide new standards to social development and inequality, and To discuss the role of the social workers in order to promote a better understanding of moral and social values in view of elaborating new strategies for the future.
